Sequential Field Trips

Description

Zeum’s Sequential Field Trips add to our traditional field trip model by giving students a more in-depth opportunity to create characters, develop storyboards or scripts, learn how to use various multimedia tools, and produce and assess their own artwork through Clay Animation, Music Video Production, Newscast Production, and Podcasts.

Objectives

By the end of each sequential field trip, participating youth will be able to demonstrate increased ability to:

1. tell their stories through animation, sound and music production, and live performance;
2. develop options and solve problems through the creative process;
3. use the basic artistic skills associated with animation, sound and music production, and live performance; and
4. collaborate with others in their class.

They will demonstrate this through the production of original digital works of art.
